

CINCINNATI IS MOST POPULAR

Students Had Bet $1,500 on Outcome of World's Series.

Second only to the enthusiasm over the prospects of the Missouri Tigers as Valley football championship contestants was the feeling over the world's series in baseball among University students. Around the bulletin board of the Evening Missourian, in the pool halls and at the Palms students began to gather even before the batteries of the game were announced every afternoon. Until the final score was received there was let-up in the interest.

Cincinnati was easily the more popular around the campus.

At a certain fraternity house the men were divided into two teams of supporters of their favorites.

"Tell the fellows that the Reds get to sit at the head of the table tonight," one member telephoned the fraternity house immediately after the final score in the first game was received last week.

And students believe in their teams to the extent of several dollars, too. It is estimated that between $1,000 and $1,500 have changed hands in the student body or will at the close of the dent body. At one fraternity house the bets aggregated slightly over $200.

There were no odds offered at the beginning of the series, but now Chicago supporters demand as high as two to one on the remaining games. When Cicotte pitchers, betting is even. The games in Chicago caused even the strongest backers of Cincinnati to go easy until they found out what was slated.

For the third time since she entered the University, Miss Marie Parker has been elected captain of a class baseball team. In the spring of 1918, she led the freshman championship baseball team. Last spring she was the head of the team which defeated the picked team from the other classes. Last Tuesday, she was chosen to lead the junior team in the series now going on. 2 APPLY AT KANSAS State Committee of Selection to Name Successful Men This Month.

University of Missouri students are showing a keener interest in the competition for Rhodes scholarships to be given this year than students of the University of Kansas. Already eight candidates here have applied for one of the two scholarships to be given in Missouri, while as late as September 27, one week before the final date for filing applications, only two students were candidates from the University of Kansas.

Both Missouri and Kansas may be represented this year by four candidates for each scholarship as last year's appointments were not made on account of the war. From the total number of candidates the two Rhodes scholars in each state will be chosen some time this month by a state committee of selection.

Formerly candidates for the scholarships were required to pass a qualifying examination, but scholars are now chosen on the basis of their collegiate record, supplemented by other tests which the committee of selection may impose.

Successful candidates usually read for the B.A. degree in one of the honor schools of Oxford University. This degree may be obtained in a wide range of subjects, including literae humaniores, mathematics, physics, chemistry, animal physiology, zoology, botany, geology, astronomy, engineering science, jurisprudence, modern history, theology, Oriental subjects, English languages and literature, and modern languages. Students qualified for advance study or research are permitted to read for such advanced degrees as B. Sc., B. Litt., B. C. L., or Ph. D.
